Subject: OMM-602 – OP&P Online Clerkship Requirement

The College Curriculum Committee has approved a clerkship requirement for the class of 2015. This requirement is intended to contribute to the process of integrating OP&P/OMM into the recognized clerkship courses as well as helping to equip you for the two COMLEX, Level 2 examinations.

In order to meet this clerkship requirement, you need to review the VOPP content and then you need to go to Angel and successfully complete each of four online content exams by receiving a passing score of at least 70%. There is no limit to the number of times that you may attempt to pass an online exam. However, you will receive a new set of questions for each attempt. You will have until August 14, 2014 to successfully complete all four of the online content exams.

You will be officially enrolled in OMM-602 in the Summer Session of 2014. The content of these materials is clinically focused and builds upon basic science content that rationalize the basis for using specific clinical procedures so that a physician may know why they are doing OMM, as well as knowing how to do it. The basic science materials are organized so that the student can access them when, and if, needed, but the student does not have to “plod” through them if they already have an adequate knowledge base.

Second you must take the OPP COMAT Exam. This exam will be available to be taken starting the summer semester after 3rd Year through the 4th Year of Clerkship. It is highly recommended that this exam be taken prior to the COMLEX 2CE exam. Exam dates will be announced prior to the availability of the exam. Taking this exam is a requirement but passing it is not. The data from this exam will be helpful for you to understand where you need to focus in preparing for the COMLEX, Level 2 examinations.

If you have questions, please contact me via e-mail at opp@msu.edu.

Rick Hallgren, Ph.D.