The Student American Academy of Osteopathy (SAAO) is a national organization committed to developing and extending the principles and practices of osteopathic medicine through academic and community ventures. At MSUCOM, members have the opportunity to work with Spartan athletes in an injury prevention study, enhance OMM skills in a weekly elective class, provide OMM at school and community functions, work with patients in the student OMM clinic, and attend the annual SAAO national convocation. SAAO is an excellent way to expand your knowledge of manual medicine techniques and learn more about the osteopathic profession.
